

Review Process

1. Immediately after receiving the Editorial Committee checks the paper for its suitability of publication in the journal and if satisfactory will recommend for blind review. Papers found not suitable will not be taken up for review and accordingly informed to the authors.
2. The review process may take approximately 4 to 6 weeks time
3. The editors reserve the right to accept or refuse an article for publication, without assigning any reasons.
4. After the review process is complete the authors will be informed about the decision of the reviewers.
5. The reviewers' report is passed on to the authors and they are expected to return the revised manuscript within the specified time.
6. The authors should revise as per the instructions provided by the reviewers and return the paper after satisfying the format requirements of the style guide.
